Helsingin Energia choose Cybercom for application development

Helsingin Energia and Cybercom have signed an agreement for delivery of application development. The contract is worth about 1.2 million euros over two years.

"Cybercom is our trusted and innovative product development partner. They deliver the technology solutions we need. We are pleased with the previous projects, and want to continue this good cooperation," says Matti Lampo, Head of ICT Applications at Helsingin Energia.

This contract is worth about 1.2 million euros and runs through 2013 and 2014. It also includes an option for the years 2015 to 2017. The total value of the contact will be about 3 million euros provided that the option materializes.

"I'm very glad for this important and interesting assignment. I see this long-term commitment as a proof of Helsingin Energia's trust in our consultants and our broad expertise in providing high quality IT solutions," says Risto Maunula, Sales Director, Cybercom Finland.
